Conclusions and Recommendations

Extensive and varied tests have been performed on 'The Wine House' site.

Overall, the site functions in a reasonable manner and allows us to carry out the actions for which it was intended.

Nevertheless, a large amount of bugs were found, in a way that harmed the user experience as a whole.

Although most of the bugs that were found are in minor or major severity, as a user you get the feeling that the site is far from being ready to use; everything works slowly and the site got a performance grade of 49/100 in a speed test; the functions that don't work force you to look for other inconvenient ways and the use is not fluid or intuitive.

The site needs fixing most, if not all, of the bugs; all the functions should work as intended; the site should work a lot faster; the accessibility must be fixed both on the web and the mobile versions; all the fields should be visible and so on.

In conclusion, I wouldn't recommend releasing the site to the end user.
